NEW AND RETURNING GEOGRAPHERS IN NORTH CAROLINA

Appalachian State University is pleased to welcome Art Rex as a new faculty member. Art graduated from Slippery Rock State College in Pennsylvania with a B. A. in geography in 1977. He received his M.A. in geography with a minor in education in 1980 from ASU. A former professional soccer player with the Pittsburgh Spirit of the Major Indoor Soccer League, Art is able to combine his interests in geography and soccer in his new position at ASU. He teaches physical geography and acts as the staff cartographer in his role as an adjunct instructor in the geography department; he also serves as the head coach for the ASU soccer team, presently ranked seventh in the South. Art lives in Boone with his wife, Jane, who is a member of the ASU staff. We wish Art the best of luck in both of his new jobs at ASU!

Several changes have occurred at U.N.C.-Chapel Hill:

Barry Moriarty has returned after two years at the National Science Foundation as Director of the Geography and Regional Science Program.

John Florin is also back after his one-year position as Distinguished Visiting Professor in the Department of Geography and Computer Science at the U.S. Military Academy.

Peter Robinson is currently in his second year with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in Washington.

Arthur Dodd has been enticed from retirement to fill Robinson's position. Art was formerly Director of the Environmental Sciences Division, Army Research Office in Durham.
